NOTE:
CodeRED emergency alerts will not be used for every fire in Nevada County. Alerts will be used only when an incident is deemed a serious potential threat to life and property (Evacuation Warning) or an immediate threat to life (Evacuation Order). Many factors are considered when determining whether an Evacuation Warning or Order is issued, such as the size of the fire, rate of spread, number of available suppression resources, wind, temperature, topography, and proximity to residences.

Know Your Evacuation Zone When an evacuation warning or order is necessary, these emergency alerts are issued by evacuation zones. Authorities will use zone names in emergency alerts, media releases, and social media to notify residents which areas are under an Evacuation Warning or Order. Residents are encouraged to be familiar with the evacuation zones they live and work. Find your evacuation zones at community.zonehaven.com by entering your home or work address into the search bar.
